These figures are those officially reported and posted Wednesday evening. There were informal reports, not tabulated, showing that the excess is even greater.

The speakers this evening will be Judge Jenkins, William H. Grogan and John W. Eckert. The speakers Friday evening will be Mayor Canfield and the Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis of the Rondout Presbyterian church.

Some of the contributions of which special mention was made Wednesday evening were:

Cornell Steamboat Co.	$500
Thomas A. Horton	100
James O. Winston	100
Mrs. J. S. Winne, (additional)	50
Capt. Timothy Donovan	50

Owing to the Sixth ward report covering two days' work there was some doubt as to whether the banner for the day should go to the Sixth or First ward. Decision was reserved.

There are, after all, some things that cannot be done, and one of these things is to adequately describe the happiness of the workers in the K. of C. War Fund Campaign on Wednesday evening when, after being stirred to what seemed the limit of enthusiasm by the addresses of Judge Hasbrouck and the Rev. Drs. Baragwanath and Cady, the tabulating of the reports of the ward captains showed that they had already "gone over the top" and raised, in half the time assigned, more than the total amount allotted to them.

The speeches and reports were interspersed with singing that helped put "pen" in the proceedings and not a little of the vim of the singers was, as has been the case at each meeting, due to the excellent work of Miss Gertrude Rafferty, who accompanied on the piano. Wednesday night a new song was sung, to the air of "Where Do We Go From Here?" The words, by one of our local bards, were as follows:

Where do we go from here, boys?
Where do we go from here?
Anywhere from Higginsville to a Kingston city pier.
When Ralph he meets a pretty girl,
He'll whisper in her ear:
"Come across and give the cash,
To furnish the boys good cheer."

John A. Mahar presided and, of course, the exercises opened with the singing of "America" and closed with "The Star Spangled Banner." The first speaker was Judge Hasbrouck, who referred to the days when Attila the Hun, "the Scourge of God," ravaged civilization and said that today the same people were at the same old task in the same old way and their efforts would, we all hope, meet with the same result. Liberty is depending on the spirit of the American people, the most wonderful spirit on earth. But we must not gamble too much on our ability. We would rather hear of achievements than to be told of what we are going to do. Some of us have thought that our government displayed too much hesitation in entering the war, but we realize that at the head of our nation we have a strong, sane, sound, persevering, square-jawed president and it is our duty to give him our united support.

Judge Hasbrouck closed with an eloquent appeal for personal service to the country along all lines, and a humorous statement that he would like to be a member of the K. of C., as "I come from Port Ewen and know your kind, and I like them."

Before introducing the Rev. Dr. Baragwanath, pastor of St. James's M. E. Church, Mr. Mahar read the following letters:

March 14th, 1913.

Major Frank L. Meagher,
Camp Wadsworth, S. C.
My Dear Major:—

I have been informed through newspaper articles and otherwise, that the Knights of Columbus are aiming to raise a fund for the further promotion of the activities of that order in the army. I have had occasion to notice the work in the K. of C. Halls in the 37th Division at Camp Sheridan, and in the 27th Division and in the corps and army troops at Camp Wadsworth, S. C. Boiling, moving pictures, vaudeville entertainments, lectures, free libraries, religious meetings and free stationery are all to be had at these places. In fact all kinds of good wholesome entertainment are to be found in the K. of C. Halls. No sectarian sentiment has been allowed to my knowledge, and I understand that none is entertained at any time. What is there

VEAL SHOULD NOT BE EATEN ON TUESDAYS

Don't Forget the Big Game.

The indoor baseball game to be played Friday evening between Company M and the police department, promises to be the sporting event of the season. Both the coppers and the soldiers are full of confidence and it will be a battle royal. Mayor Canfield will pitch the first ball. The proceeds will be donated to the Red Cross. Tickets are selling rapidly.

Many Motorists Out.

The balmy weather is being taken full advantage of by motorists and more cars were seen on the streets today than for some time.

settled and settled right. We are discovering that the things that unite us are more and finer than the things that in the past have seemed to divide us. He told of a letter he had read from a Presbyterian clergyman in France who wrote that he was bunking with a Jesuit priest and that they were helping one another in their work in which they had become so interchangeable "that you can hardly tell either from which." and in conclusion said that with the work of the K. of C. and Y. M. C. A. we would have a better type of men returning from the war than we had ever dreamed could be produced.

After the reports had been made, Mr. Mahar, endorsing the remarks of the preceding speakers, pledged that in the forthcoming Red Cross drive and in future Y. M. C. A. campaigns the K. of C. would stand shoulder to shoulder, "for we are all Americans and will persevere to the end and will help to put every one of your campaigns over the top as you have helped us to go over the top tonight."

Brief addresses by John D. Schoonmaker, City Treasurer James E. Canfield, Harry R. Dodge and John F. Herbert followed. The latter referred to Mr. Mahar as "the tall spruce of the Berkshires" and made a scathing reference to "nightwads," saying that he would have nothing to do with them—he would walk miles to meet a manly man, but not one inch to try to "shake down" a mean one. In conclusion Mr. Herbert said not enough credit was being given to the ladies for their help in the campaign and called attention to the fact that one lady had contributed twice as much as any man.

East Kingston Has $1,232.75.

Of the $1,590 for the K. of C. and New York Catholic War Fund assigned to St. Colman's Church, East Kingston, $1,232.75 has already been turned in, including last night's report. Of this amount, $368.50 was reported the first day of the drive. With the Italian men's and women's teams, who have not been heard from at all, as yet, and the school children's contributions, over $1,590 can be easily seen.

This patriotic response is a surprise, no doubt, to many Kingstonians who thought if at least half of the allotted sum would be given in the little village it would be remarkable. A member of one of the men's teams, working in the northern section of the parish, near the Saunder's line, after receiving seventy cents for his day's toil, expressed that he believes some of those people who did not give and who said "We gave to the Y. M. C. A. last year," and "We can't be giving to everything that comes along," do not know as are at war with Germany. If they do know, and don't give, he says, a yellow streak should be painted on their faces.

DENNING LINED UP FOR HOME DEFENSE

Peekamoose, March 21.—The Home Defense Committee of Ulster County has asked its members to organize their towns to be ready for any patriotic work that may be planned by the general council. As member for the town of Denning, I have called to this service the following women: Mrs. Riley Sholey, Sundown; Mrs. Fred M. Yale, Claryville; Mrs. George W. Eris, Ladleton; Mrs. Andrew George, Red Hill. The matter of cutting cord work for sale has been taken up in each community. This is a tremendously busy season. Many of the Denning people are engaged with their sap orchards and syrup-making and spring work on the farms is pushing them to the limit, but if a price that would pay them could be guaranteed there would be no wood forthcoming. Five dollars a cord, piled on the highway, is suggested as fair compensation and they await an answer.

The town of Denning covers such rugged mountain country that mail distances between its post offices are not such "as the crow flies." For instance, between the homes of the Peekamoose and Ladleton members of this committee, the direct distance over the mountain, through the woods, is not over five miles; the mail, however, I am told, travels Peekamoose-Ellenville (123 miles), Ellenville to Liberty, Liberty to Ladleton, by three stages and two trains, many miles of distance and two days of time.

The responses of the women called to serve on this committee are inspiring in loyalty. Mrs. Riley Sholey is the daughter of Allen Dean, a Civil War veteran, and as a neighbor said of her: "She is loyal to the bone." Mrs. Yale wrote: "I will be pleased to accept the appointment if you think I can do the work. Mr. Yale will assist me." Mrs. Eris: "I will be a member of the committee and do what I can to help. I am expecting my only son to be called to the colors any day. I am a busy woman and have much to see to here in the spring months; I feel, though, that we all must do what we can to win this war, and win it we must, with God's help."

Mrs. Andrew George writes: "Although it has been my rule never to take up any outside work on account of being so fully occupied at home, I can hardly refuse to become a member of a committee for Home Defense. What little I can do I will do most willingly. Most of the people here, irrespective of their parentage or any other consideration, are very loyal to our cause—following food conservation instructions, and planning larger crops even than last year, although much of the gardening must be done by women and girls."

Denning is ready to stand by the colors!

PRaises BOATS BUILT HERE

In the following letter of thanks received by Mrs. Marcus A. Weed from Alfred T. Loomis of S. C. 78, it will be noted that the Kingston built boats are highly praised. The letter was in part as follows:

"I wish to thank you for the Comfort Kit and socks received this morning. It hadn't any Comfort Kit, and the articles in it will be badly needed when they are needed. The socks also are a very welcome gift for while I am well fitted out with knitted things, socks have a way of wearing out."

You will probably be interested to know that several other Kingston-built boats besides our own fleet which includes 77, 78, 79, 80 and 81, are now in port. We can always recognize them by the workmanship in them. You ask me about myself, but I have little to tell beyond that I am quartermaster of our vessel, and a pennant of poor ability. I have not had the advantages of a college education, being obliged to leave school in the junior year and having worked for my living up to the time I joined the navy, May 8th, 1917. My parents were both born in New York and I have lived there all my life. I know very little about my grandfather, except that he went around the Horn in some capacity in 1849.

Thanking you again for your gifts, I am, sincerely,
(Signed) ALFRED T. LOOMIS.

U. S. CAVALRY MAY USE GRENADES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 21.—The United States Army may fight Germany with a new weapon.

The possibilities of the hand grenade as a weapon for cavalry has been proposed and a board of officers headed by Brig. De Rosey Cabell will meet shortly at Douglas, Ariz., to investigate and make a report upon its use.

Although military officials will not discuss the question, it is understood that a new hand grenade, constructed in such a manner that it may be safely carried by a mounted man, has been perfected and if this proves true it will add much to the effectiveness of cavalry.

Cavalry has been little used in Europe in the present war but its success in a spectacular manner on the British side, in the Cambrai offensive, has brought the use of this arm back into favor among military men. There is now in process of organization a new division of cavalry in our own army and the new grenade if adopted will be tried by this increment.

The other members of the board are Lieut. Col. George B. Rodney, cavalry, and First Lt. Charles F. Palmer 10th Cavalry.

FARLEY LECTURE THIS EVENING

Tonight is the night—don't forget the lecture by Will H. Farley at the Elks' Hall, 264 Fair street, at 8 o'clock.

Ralph Cohen says, "The troubles of a merchant are solved when you hear Mr. Farley's lecture." This is an opportunity that is rare and every merchant and clerk in the city should avail themselves of this advantage. This is an illustrated lecture which is not only instructive but entertaining as well. Mr. Farley comes to us with a string of endorsements and recommendations from all over the country, and the Chamber of Commerce has been fortunate in securing this talked-of lecturer for the people of Kingston.

Admission will be by ticket, which can be obtained from William M. Davis of Forsyth & Davis, or from the office of the Chamber of Commerce.

FARM HANDS MAY REMAIN ON FARMS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 21.—Farm hands listed in Class I and within the next quota will be allowed deferred classification. Notices to this effect were mailed Wednesday by the United States employment service of the department of labor to farmers throughout the country.

"The provost marshal general has ordered," the notice runs, "that men actively, assiduously and completely engaged in planting or the cultivation of a crop but who are listed in Class I and within the new quota, should be deferred until the end of the new quota."

Farmers will have to support their claims for deferred classification for their helpers with affidavits, executed with the local draft boards. Farmers who fail to heed this advice, the notice says, will have "no cause for complaint if their hands are taken from them at this critical time."

DAMAGE AT PENNY ARCADE IS $1,500

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, March 21.—All Dutch shipping in the port of New York was seized today.

President Wilson's proclamation for the commandeering of all Dutch ships in the territorial waters of the United States was carried out here by armed crews from the Brooklyn navy yard. There was no excitement here incidental to the seizure. The skeleton crews that have been manning the Dutch boats departed without even a protest. Then the Dutch flag was replaced with the Stars and Stripes.

Forty-two steamships owned by Holland are in the port of New York, according to customs officials. The Nieuw Amsterdam is the best of these steamships, but she is immune from seizure because of the guarantee by the minister of the United States that she would have permission to return to Holland following her voyage across the Atlantic last month.

The largest vessel seized here today registered 12,527 gross tons. The gross tonnage of the Dutch vessels in the vicinity of New York was estimated by one official today as 250,000 tons.

As soon as each Dutch ship was boarded by a commissioned officer and a squad of men, the Holland sailors were lined on deck and the American flag raised with simple ceremony at the tailfin where the red, white and blue flag of The Netherlands had previously flown.

The work of taking over the Dutch ships began at 9:30 o'clock. At that hour two special patrol boats and two special tugs left The Battery seawall and proceeded to Ellis Island. On the island were 350 men of the Naval Reserve and 150 customs inspectors. All these were evenly distributed on the four craft.

Two of the government chartered boats then proceeded to Hoboken where six vessels of the Holland-American Line were taken over; another took over those at Bayonne and Jersey City, and the fourth worked up the North river where a whole fleet of Dutch merchantmen have been lying idle for months.

BOMB EXPLODED ON U. S. DESTROYER

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 21.—Lieut. Commander Richard McCall Elliott of New York and three enlisted men were killed when a depth bomb was exploded on the U. S. destroyer Manley by the force of a collision with a British man-of-war on the night of March 19, in European waters, the navy department announced this afternoon. Seven enlisted men were seriously injured and four slightly injured. The destroyer was later towed to a European port.

ASK POWER TO SEIZE PROPERTY OF ALL KINDS

War Department Asks Blanket Power of Seizure for the President in Most Drastic War Emergency Bill Yet Introduced.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, March 21.—Senator Charles McNary, chairman of the senate military affairs committee, this afternoon introduced a bill sent to congress yesterday by the war department, giving the president practically blanket powers to take over all real and personal property in the United States.

The measure was referred back to the military committee for investigation. Indications were that it would meet with the greatest opposition because of the almost unlimited scope of the powers it confers upon the president.

Senator Chamberlain stated in the senate that he introduced it "at the request of the war department."

The measure provides: "That the president be, and he is hereby, authorized, either directly or through such executive agency department as he may designate, to take over for and on behalf of the United States from time during the present war, the possession and use or ownership of any and all personal property and such use of, or such right, title, and interest in, and to, any and all real property, or any part or portion thereof, as in his opinion is necessary for the national security and defense or the conduct of the government."

The government under the provisions of the bill, would have authority to take possession of any property it desired immediately upon proclamation by the president.

The reconstruction work on School No. 5 may be finished by May first, although the work is progressing slowly. The painters have started the interior decorations.

How I keep his little woolens soft and sweet

"BEFORE my baby came, the trained nurse had cautioned me: 'Have all the tiny garments of the best quality and have only as many of each as you really need to keep your baby fresh and sweet. That is the actually important thing. Launder his things constantly. Never let one little garment stay soiled from one day to the next.'

"From the very first I used Lux for them. It was so easy to whip the pure delicate Lux flakes into rich suds—so simple to squeeze the suds through the little garments—then take them out absolutely sweet and clean and fresh.

"The little woolens never shrank a thread—never stiffened or grew thick—not after repeated washings. And his precious little dresses were always as dainty and fresh as new."

See for yourself how the Lux way of washing without rubbing keeps your baby's woolens soft and unshrunken. Your grocer, druggist or department store has Lux—Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

LUX
Won't shrink woolens

How to Wash Babies' Woolens

Use two tablespoonfuls of Lux to a gallon of water. Dissolve the Lux flakes in boiling or very hot water, and whisk into a thick lather. Put the little garments in and let them soak until the water has cooled enough for the hands to bear with comfort. Squeeze the suds through the garments. Do not rub. Rinse three times in clear water, hot as the water you washed the garments in; dissolve a little Lux in the last rinsing water, but do not beat into a lather.

This leaves the woolens softer and fluffier. Squeeze the water out. Do not wring. Dry in the shade, and press with a warm iron, never a hot one. A damp piece of cheese-cloth will prevent the iron from scorching or yellowing the garments. Wash colored woolens in lukewarm suds, and do not soak.

Beautiful Things Worth While.

Bear bravely the burden which so many other shoulders have borne. Insist upon a little time daily for the contemplation of beauty. A walk through the clean air, the coming up of the sun and the long shadows and rich gold bars of the winter morning, a Japanese bulb in a porcelain jar, a load of straw caught by the sun on a hill, the cattle streaming about the black, the woman above the cradle, the frost crystals on the pane, the poise of a cat, children at play, one or all these things arrest the heavy lover. Let there be moments when the hubbub is hushed and when beauty of color, sound or some peculiar and exquisite composition may sink into the waiting soul.—Buffalo Express.

To Win Success.

When you can put yourself into things you do they are bound to succeed. Most failures result from half-heartedness. Or it may be that the principle is wrong. Time has not been taken to make sure that you are right. When you can put your whole soul into things you are bound to carry conviction. To this you must add your toll. Half-hearted endeavor will not make even a good thing go. To get dividends out you must put energy and brain in. You must "know thyself" as Socrates said. You must know your job as A. T. Stewart did the mercantile business and then success will come.—Pennsylvania Gilt.

Where Courage is Valuable.

It takes courage to do that which is unpopular, but which one feels is right. Courage is a great asset in citizenship because it impels us to do right for right's sake and not because it pleases some one else.

TOPCOATS FAVORED IN PARIS

Overgarment Found to Be Quite Necessary or Wear With One-Piece Frocks, Notes Writer.

No doubt topcoats are going to hold their own this spring. Indeed, Paris approves the topcoat enthusiastically—even almost to the extent of ignoring the tailored suit, a fashion authority states. American women, however, insist upon the smart, trim, little coat and skirt costume for some occasions and agree with their English cousins that there are times when only a correct tailor-made will convey the right impression in costume. The topcoat, though, will be the backbone of the spring wardrobe, and of course this is due to the extreme popularity of one-piece frocks, which everybody is wearing now—morning, afternoon and evening.

Many of the new coats are long enough to cover the frock completely; others show an inch or two at the hem, and still others—occasional models—are in three-quarter length. A Worth coat just brought over to make part of an Easter trousseau, exaggerates this effect, suggesting a turned-up coat once to show the skirt beneath. Worth calls:

TIPS FOR GOOD DRESSERS

Beading is out; stitchery is in. Compose frocks are made of serge, jersey and satin. Bands of hemstitching form ladder-work designs. Double-faced ribbons are applied to "pink de clene" undies. Hand-made laces used on lingerie show outlining achieved in color. Camisole and knickers form the new combination suits of satin. Porcupine quills appear in the composition of new chapeaux. Sailors, tricornes, tams, cloches and high and low turbans are all good style.

PLAIN CLOTHES ARE POPULAR

Frocks for Early Spring Are Characterized by Their Real Simplicity and Accompanying Smartness.

The more one sees of the frocks for early spring wear, the more one realizes that characterizes the new season and emphasizes more strongly than ever the true smartness of the simple gown. Frocks all frilled with many furrows are always more easily copied by amateurs than the more severe models. Women who understand realize that the simpler the effect of a gown, the more skill has been required to make it.

Whether it is a morning frock of chambray for Southern wear, a tunic for street wear or a more aspiring dinner frock, where good style reigns, they seem to vie with each other for the success of plain fashions. There is a lack of complexity in design formerly so much loved by those who doted on anything from Paris with a mystery in closing, in trimming and in cut.

With knitting bag, purse, muff and pockets, woman ought to be able to carry her burdens. Knitting bags made from Panama hats are being exhibited at Palm Beach. Neutral shades are first choice for spring millinery. Grass, browns, beige and tans are safe selections.

The Bee's Weakness.

United States' Debt to Sweden.

It was in June 1782 when, upon the order of Gustavus III the Swedish minister in Paris, Gustavus Philip Creutz, got into communication with the American agent in France, Benjamin Franklin. It was nothing less than a treaty with Europe's oldest kingdom which Creutz offered to Franklin and the free states of his land. Franklin himself as well as his countrymen, agreed with thankfulness the offered hand, the treaty was signed in April, 1783, and remained of practical benefit to the United States for a long time. The most important of the treaty was, however, that the treaty signified the introduction of the United States into international relations as a recognized power.

Sheep With Gold-Filled Teeth.

The sheep of the western islands of Scotland are almost as wealthy as the dogs that ride in automobiles on our own Fifth avenue, in New York City. The canine aristocrats have occasional cavities in their teeth filled with gold, but the Scottish sheep have their entire set of teeth replaced before they have any chance to decay. The gold-plating is done to gold teeth in the soil. As early as 1751 James Hutton, a Scotch geologist, stated the remarkable appearance of the teeth from the golden particles in central Aberdeen. They were a yellow, then a brown, then a red, black, and at times, with a little more care, a bright gold color. He says—Popular Science Monthly.

MONOPOLIZING INTELLIGENCE.

Although no complaint, apparently, has been made that meatless or wheatless days have resulted in harm to the health of anyone who observed them, the Senate Committee on Agriculture at Washington is expected to recommend the abolition of meatless days, arriving at its conclusion that such action is necessary by a course of reasoning which to say the least is amazing not only for men who hold the exalted office of Senator but amazing for American citizens as well.

If meatless days are not discontinued, at least a reduction in the amount of conservation of meat will be recommended. Statistics before the Senate Committee show that the mutton supply of the country has been especially affected by the meatless day order, that "exports of mutton and lamb are almost negligible and conservation has decreased the demand to such a degree that the market has become very slow," as a consequence of which, producers "are ceasing to feed lamb and mutton and are turning to other products." It is announced also that the committee has "evidence to the effect that conservation has killed the refrigerating plants and as a consequence livestock is being held on the farms which should be on the market."

But the most remarkable statement is that "beef and pork products, the cattle dealers claim, are also suffering from low prices brought about by the wide conservation. They declare that these prices are not for the benefit of the consumer but do work to the detriment of the producers."

In other words, the producers are poorer, and the Senate Committee believes that "meatless days are not decreasing consumption to any appreciable degree," nevertheless they have decreased the demand for mutton "to such a degree that the market has become very slow." Blowing hot and blowing cold in that way is not a novelty but who would believe the contradictory statements?

It is a common-sense saving that sheep-rangers threaten to stop breeding; they will cease breeding; probably they will let the sheep die. This concentrated wisdom reaches the public some time after Food Administrator Hoover had ruled that mutton might be eaten on meatless days because it is not good food to export for use of the army, which requires pork and beef, both of which are the most suitable for export and for the army in the field.

If the beef and pork market "are also suffering from low prices brought about by the wide conservation," while at the same time "meatless days are not decreasing the consumption to any appreciable degree," can anyone except a Senator explain why the meatless days should be ended? If Congressional action must be taken merely to show authority, why hide behind explanations that are so contradictory that merely to put them before the public is an insult to the public's intelligence? Is no one fit to use reasoning powers or possess information unless he is elected to office? Is that to be the test of intelligence in America?

If low prices are "not for the benefit of the consumer," then some speculator must be profiteering. Of course, the profiteer must be protected at all hazards, and the only available Senatorial way is to require the consumer to consume more. It may use most of the available supply of meat which is intended for the Army, but what of that? The Army is going abroad anyway. The ordinary consumers are making so much money that they can buy Liberty Bonds and the would-be profiteer is a good fellow who has spent a lot of time in planning to make a rich and quick haul and the disappointment to him would be terrible indeed.

Naturally the producer considers his own interests as more important than those of the consumer, while the consumer takes the opposite view. Between them comes the Government with a claim superior to either of the others and it rightly demands that profiteering at government expense shall no longer be tolerated. In order to create a reputation which will allow its loans to be readily taken up by the public, which also must contribute to benefactions connected with the war, it becomes the duty of government also to protect the public from the producer, and in order to protect the capital of the producer and enable him to continue, it is the government's duty to see that he receives a fair profit. International economics as well as domestic conditions must be considered and the combination of necessities led to the selection of Herbert C. Hoover as National Food Administrator. Were Congressional prerogatives taken away thereby? Would the Senate have acted more efficiently and promptly than Hoover? Read of the present Senatorial attitude and proposed action with the reasons therefor, and judge for yourself.

The wheat situation resolves itself into a question whether continued agitation for an increase over the President's price of $2.20 a bushel will not result in producers holding on the farms for that price a bigger crop of wheat than has been planted before, which was put in the ground with the understanding that the price was to be $2 per bushel.

While Hoover's failure to appear is believed to be due to the fact that he is not anxious to make a public statement because of an international situation which cannot be disclosed, members of the committee are said to have insisted upon a public statement. Such senators probably imagine they know more about military matters than all the generals and diplomats combined, and so imbued are they with their own importance they cannot see that such a statement would help the Kaiser and be treasonable to America's cause. Perhaps they imagine that the American public considers their success in divulging important secret information as of greater consequence than the war itself. Perhaps the public is as blind as they seem to think, but if so, the public has become strangely Kaiserized.

HEATING VALUE OF HARD WOOD

By Telegram to The Freeman
Albany, March 21.—The heating value of a cord of dry hardwood is practically identical with that of a ton of coal, according to a report sent yesterday by the Glens Falls Insurance Co. to the conservation commission.

In order to eliminate guess work in this much discussed question, the Glens Falls Insurance Co. report that they conducted during the coldest period of the winter a definite fourteen day test in their building at Glens Falls. During one period of seven days nothing but wood was used to heat the building and during the other seven days only coal was used. The average outdoor temperature, day and night, during the coal period was three and one-tenth degrees above zero, and the average daily consumption of coal was 1.18 tons. The average outdoor temperature, day and night, during the wood period was two and one-tenth degrees, and the average daily consumption of wood was 1.21 cords. The temperature of the building was maintained at 70-72 degrees day and night throughout both periods, excepting on the two hottest Mondays, when the temperature ranged from 60-65 degrees. No additional labor was required for firing when wood was used, and the same men did the work throughout both tests.

The wood used was dry chestnut, red oak, beech, birch, maple and poplar—one-half chestnut and the balance scattering through the other varieties. "Our engineer advises that the wood used was very inferior in quality," writes H. N. Dickinson, secretary of the Glens Falls Insurance Company. "Had it been possible to secure the necessary supply of a good grade of hardwood, the comparison between the fuels would have been much more striking. In addition, as a result of this wood burning, we effected a saving of $1 per day, the average cost to us of hauling away coal ashes. The ashes from the wood are much less in quantity and we are, of course, saving them and will later sell them with a resulting still further credit to our fuel account."

What's New for Spring?

ANY number of men and young men have asked us that question about the spring clothes. There never has been so much interest before and never so many good styles to be interested in. Because so many men want authentic information, we're publishing these fashion notes.

There's the "erect, shoulders back and chest out" influence of this war that is evident in all the new models. The waist lines are more marked; the buttons spaced closer together; military backs and pockets are the thing.

Above you see four young men's styles from Hart Schaffner & Marx

- 1 At the extreme left is the new two button sack with patch pockets. Notice the straight hanging front and the body tracing lines in the waist.
- 2 Next you see a double breasted suit; they're going to be worn more than ever this spring. They'll make a pleasing change for many men. Notice the buttons—two only are buttoned. The lapels are semi-peaked.
- 3 The third suit from the left is one of the liveliest of the new sport styles. There's a seam at the waist line; a military back and slanting slash pockets. Those are small plaits above the waist seam.
- 4 This suit at the right is another sport style—and an especially good one. The pockets have double rows of stitching and buttons and buttonholes.

We'll be glad to show you some of the other new ones; every suit is all wool for long wear. The value you get for your money makes these the lowest priced clothes you can buy.

AUTO ACCIDENT ON WEST HURLEY ROAD

Miss Irene Hull, seventeen years old, who resides at Malden-on-Hudson was seriously injured internally about six o'clock Wednesday evening near the Lockwood farm on the West Hurley road, a short distance from this city, when a Ford automobile in which she was riding with Walter Boyle crashed into a team of horses driven by John Britt, who was returning from Kingston to his home in the Hurley woods.

Mr. Boyle is an agent for the Goodwin Tire & Rubber Company and was returning to Kingston from a trip through the Catskills. His car is said to have been traveling fast at the time of the accident. The road at that place is level and straight. The force of the collision threw the automobile to the side of the road and it turned over, pinning down both occupants. Boyle had presence of mind to shut off the motor. Britt at once went to their assistance and after pulling the car over succeeded in extricating them.

Miss Hull was removed to the home of James Lockwood and Dr. Harry B. Van Wageningen of John street was summoned. He found the young woman suffering intensely and removed her to the Benedictine Sanitarium. She is believed to be suffering from internal injuries as well as shock, but it may be several days before the results of her injuries can be ascertained.

The cause of the accident has not been determined but it is believed that the steering gear was defective as no trouble was experienced until Boyle met the Britt team. Mrs. Daniel Cowley of Stony Hollow occupied a seat on the wagon with Britt but neither she nor Britt were injured. The team was slightly cut.

The mayor stated that there had been a movement on foot for some time looking towards the abolishment of the crossing but that the Public Service Commission had refused to carry out the plans, claiming it was without funds to complete the work and pay the state's share of the expense.

Other addresses were made and some good singing was enjoyed.

RED CROSS NURSES
IN GOOD HEALTH

Since it has been found that only one out of every 1,000 of the American Red Cross nurses in France succumb from disease or overstrain, the nursing officials feel that the prospect of keeping up the health morale of the 40,000 nurses soon to be recruited for our armies looks favorable.

More than 7,000 American Red Cross nurses are today engaged in active service, and this number will, it is confidently expected, be materially increased next month. Many nurses are enrolling for Red Cross Nursing Service in response to the call sent out by Miss Jane A. Delano, head of the Army Nurse's Corps at Washington.

Five hundred nurses sailed from this port during February, coming through the Atlantic Division, and the recruits during March, it is believed will reach the 1,000 mark. Both these contingents, however, have been ready for months, awaiting the word to sail.

The nurses have come from all parts of the country, and beside having passed the severe technical tests demanded by the Washington authorities, are in the pink of physical condition, according to Miss Florence Merriam Johnson, director of the department of nursing for the Atlantic Division.

THE BROADWAY CROSSING.

Mr. Vaux Suggests Model Showing How to Abolish It.

Sir:—The most important lesson to be learned from the Broadway crossing accident is the imperative need of a united public sentiment in favor of its elimination.

The only way the public can be convinced is to see the thing done in miniature on a model and I wholeheartedly endorse Mayor Canfield's suggestion made at the Rotary Club dinner last night, to put it up to the common council at the next meeting.

Models are used in much preliminary work of this kind and are not expensive to make, and when one is made duplicates can be cast in plaster from the original and many puzzling lines and grades shown to people who can not understand intricate engineering drawings.

I believe a "fifty fifty" solution will be the medicine, the railroad to go down at Broadway, enough to allow Broadway to go over the top without undue strain.

Yours faithfully,
DOWNING VAUX,
Landscape Architect.

"BETTER BLIND THAN DEAF"

Scientific Writer Points Out Why the Former Affliction is Less Hard to Bear.

Scientists have shown that sound not only informs the intellect, as does sight, but that, much in excess of that sense, it excites feelings—that is, sound pure and simple has a specific relation to feelings widely different from that of sight.

Its primary effect was the creating of moods. Margaret Baldwin writes in the Atlantic magazine. This being so, the simple fact is that sound has far more to do fundamentally with organizing our emotions, or how we feel from day to day, than has what we see.

It should be said in passing, that there is very little recognition of this fact by the person with normal hearing. Sight and sound are so interwoven for him that he does not discriminate as to what belongs intrinsically to each in the province of feelings. It is only when the two are clearly separated, as in deafness or blindness, that experience takes note of what belongs to the one and the other.

A scientific writer points out that we can see with indifference, the writhings of a suffering animal that is still, but that, if there are cries of pain, it produces emotions at once. We are distressed. In reports of terrible marine disasters, it is almost never said by people that they can never forget the sights they saw, but always that they can never forget the cries of the drowning.

Although one would hardly hesitate to say that the excess of the blind man's calamity over that of the deaf man is sufficient to overbalance this elemental function of sound to produce moods, yet the universal fact remains that the blind are more cheerful than the deaf.

To Laugh At—A Lost Hat.

One of the funniest sights in the world is a man whose hat has been knocked off or ruined by being blown off—provided, of course, it be the other fellow's hat. All the jokes in the world are based on a few elemental ideas, and this is one of them. The sight of other people in trouble is nearly always funny. This is human nature. If you will observe your own conduct whenever you see a friend falling down on the street, you will find that nine times out of ten your first impulse is to laugh and your second is to run and help him get up. To be polite you will dust off his clothes and ask him if he has hurt himself. But when it is over you can not resist telling him how funny he looked when he was falling. The man with the real sense of humor is the man who can put himself in the spectator's place and laugh at his own mistakes.—Rett Williams, in the American Magazine.

Place Work Above Riches.

There is a story told of a multimillionaire who was offered $50,000,000 for his holdings in the business in which he had been interested for many years. He went home that night and consulted his wife, who had been his good comrade in all of his business adventures, and she said: "Don't you sell? What would I do with the money, and what would you do without your work?" And the multimillionaire didn't sell. This is just an illustration that goes to show that money can have only a certain value, and that value is not comparable with the value of work.—Exchange.

CAMP LIBRARIES
HELP WIN THE WAR

"Camp library service has been established for just one purpose," said Burton E. Stevenson, at Camp Sherman recently, "that is to help win the war, and there are three ways in which it can help: First, by helping to maintain the morale of the men by providing them with interesting and entertaining reading matter to help tide over the moments of loneliness and depression which comes to everyone; second, by helping to educate them as to the causes and purposes of the war, and make them realize that they are not fighting for a distant land, but for the very stones of this Republic; and third, by providing the men with special technical books along their several lines and so making them better and more efficient soldiers."

Good reading has helped to keep many a soldier up to his highest level; it has aided in the recovery of many a wounded man. It has helped to keep him cheerful, and to send back to the firing line with renewed determination to win or die bravely in the attempt.

British soldiers returning home have said that but for the solace of reading, they would indeed have been badly off for recreation and amusement in the gloomy dugout, in the trenches, and the huts which afforded them some sort of shelter. There, often by the light of a candle stuck in a bottle, or upon a piece of wood with a nail driven through it, the war is happily driven from the mind by the "magic carpet" of some book of travel or romance.

How about the book that was given to you last Christmas? One way of keeping the spirit of Christmas in your heart is to pass on the book to some soldier. He needs it more than you do.

TEACHING WOMEN
USE OF BALLOT

There was a goodly number of representative women at the chapel of the First Dutch church Tuesday evening, when the first session of the School of Instruction in the use of the ballot, under the supervision of the Federation of Women's Clubs was held. The first speaker of the evening was Alfred D. Van Buren whose clearness, clarity and honesty made a profound impression on all present. Mr. Van Buren said he was not going to attempt to do what he had no right to do, tell anybody "how to vote," but he did hope to impress his hearers with the seriousness of their new privilege and responsibility in voting. He also intended trying to make plain the use of the ballot, the symbol of American freedom and liberty. And he warned his hearers that the ballot was infinitely more than a "scrap of paper." The speaker considered it an inopportune time for the women of the state to first exercise their privilege as voters, when there was so much that is rotten and tricky in our politics, and voiced the sentiment that it was a shame that our men had not to some extent at least, cleared up the politics of the state before this event. He told the women, that through their use of the ballot they would preserve their own standards in the community. First of all the women of our city as well as state must be made to realize their responsibility in this matter, whether it has been of their choosing or not. Mr. Van Buren then surprised the audience by stating that women in more woe and trouble than men, and that they could not be so easily organized. Then he stated that the plainest instruction in the use of the ballot was that with the vote would be a moral question. Having registered their detail as to what they counted a word of credit to them. Then he stated that the women must register their moral issue, and that they shall not be for but for the moral part. Van Buren arousing the interest of all of the city in this ability as to this could through a man of the urging, others, the responsibility would or matter of berry who.

Mr. The every Fed that today port can through a While each of the city dividually ballot, to without every such the import avail little might see initiate the city. It was a chairman cative com be widely the interests of the whole community at heart as the official board of the organization. This coming special election would be one of deepest concern to our women, and the speaker said that no time should be lost in the forming of the organization of the women of the city; that in the short time remaining before the two registration days, every woman in the city could be interested in the matter. It had been arranged that there would be held a second meeting similar to the one in progress, on Friday evening of this week at the Rondout Presbyterian church, for the special purpose of forming such an organization, and it was asked that representatives from Tuesday evening be present. A square yoke, which may be omitted. The sleeve, in wrist length, is finished with a band cuff. In shorter length, a neat, pointed cuff forms a suitable trimming. The skirt has roomy pockets and is a three-piece model. The pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust measure. It requires 6 1/2 yards of 36-inch material for a 36-inch size. The skirt measures about 3 yards at the foot.

So many conflicting statements have come from sources outside the Red Cross to the effect that our soldiers were being supplied with socks which they would never be able to wear that Mr. Allen called attention to the fact that the life of a pair of socks in the trenches is about three days.

"There is little likelihood," said Mr. Allen, "that more socks will be needed by the soldiers than will be needed by them."

Brontides.

Mystery still attaches to certain explosive sounds, heard in various parts of the world and known to science as "brontides." On the coast of Belgium these sounds seem to come from the sea, and are called locally "mistpuffers." In the Ganges delta of India, similar sounds are called "Barisal guns." Brontides are well known in some parts of Italy, where they bear a great variety of names. In Haiti a sound of this character is known as the "gouffre," while in parts of Australia it is called the "desert sound." Brontides mostly take the form of muffled detonations, of indefinite direction. Studies of eccentricities in the transmission of sound through the atmosphere lead to the conclusion that some of the sounds hitherto reported as brontides were really due to cannonading or blasting.—Popular Science Monthly.

TO PROTECT RIGHTS OF MEN IN SERVICE

Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act
Protects Them From undue Hardship But Someone Must Notify the Court.

In order that undue advantage may not be taken advantage of soldiers and sailors in the United States service, congress has passed and the president has approved the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act, copies of which have been furnished to about 20,000 lawyers, to all superior courts and to all local exemption boards.

How much of an impression the receipt of such copies is expected to make is indicated by the concluding paragraph of an accompanying circular, which states: "These circulars ought to be already well informed as to the provisions of the new act. Nevertheless, the copies furnished to the Red Cross officers and members will doubtless be needed for further circulation to lawyers and magistrates. Applicants for extra copies should be directed to the division offices of the Red Cross."

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act aims to protect soldiers and sailors from undue hardship, due to their inability to bring or defend lawsuits and to attend to their business obligations or property rights, during their absence in military service.

A soldier or a sailor may owe money on a note, or he may have bought or leased land, or tools or furniture on which an installment is due. Or he may have mortgaged his home, and be liable to foreclosure for nonpayment. Or he may have started a homestead or mining claim and be unable to continue the necessary occupation in the required period of time. Or he may have carried life insurance for several years and now be unable to keep up the premium payments. Or he may have a money claim against some one and during his absence the lapse of time may raise a legal bar against suing for it when he returns. Or he may be sued on some claim in his absence and may be unable to defend the suit effectively while absent.

In these and other ways he may suffer hardship. The object of the act is to give relief from such hardship.

The main principle of the act, as indicated by the officials having charge of notifying the proper authorities of its passage and effects, is as follows:

1.—Let some one, on behalf of the soldier or sailor, notify the court that the party concerned is a soldier or sailor. Then the court will make prompt inquiries into the merits of the case; if the case merits it, the court has power to stay the other party from further proceedings, or to give other remedy that may be appropriate. The court may also appoint an attorney to represent the soldier or sailor in the lawsuit.

2.—If a lawsuit has been begun already in some court against the soldier or sailor, go to that same court and give the notice above mentioned. If no lawsuit has yet been begun, but some landlord or other person is preparing to sell out or take possession of some property, the soldier or sailor is interested, go to the court in whose jurisdiction the property is, notify the court as above, and ask the court to summon the other party. All such persons are forbidden by law to take property in that way without first applying to court for an order; but some persons may attempt to take possession without doing so, in ignorance of the new law.

3.—If the soldier or sailor had an insurance policy or a fraternal benefit membership before September 1, 1917, and fears that he may not be able to keep up his payments, he should write to the War Risk Insurance Bureau at Washington, and ask them for a form of application for ask his post adjutant at the camp. The Government, on certain conditions, will guarantee the payment of the premiums, so that the policy or membership will not be forfeited during the soldier's or sailor's absence; he will then have a year after his return in which to pay up and save his policy or membership. This relief does not apply to all policies or memberships, and details cannot be given here; but on filling out the application and sending it to the War Risk Insurance Bureau it will be duly taken care of, if it is the kind of insurance that is protected by this act.

A Conserving Food

The recognized value of

Grape-Nuts

as a "saving" food for these serious times, rests upon real merit.

Unlike the ordinary cereal Grape-Nuts requires no sugar, little milk or cream, and requires no cooking or other preparation in serving.

A trial is well worth while for those who sincerely desire to save.

GERMANS OPEN ARTILLERY FIRE

This Preliminary to the Long Handed German Offensive on the Western Front?

By Telegraph to The Freeman
London, March 21.—German artillery opened up at dawn today with a terrific bombardment against the whole British front between the Somme river to a point south of St. Quentin.

Announcement of the German cannons was made by the war office at noon.

British troops carried out successful raids in the St. Quentin sector last night, capturing about a dozen prisoners and several machine guns. Other successful raids were made by the British at Messines, on the West Flanders front, and also in the sector of the Houthouster Forest, north of the Upper St. Quentin railway.

German positions were entered and some prisoners were captured. The intense German artillery activity reported by the British war office may be the beginning of the long heralded and much advertised German offensive on the western front.

The Scarpe river lies east of Arras and the front line between that sector and a point south of St. Quentin might be roughly estimated at about forty miles in length.

The whole line has been the scene of violent and bloody fighting in the past, especially the zone around Cambrai which lies 25 miles north of St. Quentin.

If, as some observers are inclined to believe, the cannonading is really the prelude to a German drive, the greatest battle of the war may be in prospect.

However, the possibility exists that the Germans are cannonading on that section of the front mentioned in order to cloak operations elsewhere. It had generally been believed that the German blow on the western front would fall upon the French. But if the artillery activity is any indication of its location it means that the British will have to bear the brunt of the offensive.

One indication that the bombardment may be the introduction to a German offensive is contained in a recent report from Copenhagen that the chiefs of the German general staff had invited neutral correspondents to leave Berlin on Wednesday to "witness the offensive against the Allies on the western front."

For some time reports have been coming out of Holland that Germany was massing vast quantities of ammunition and guns upon the western front and that von Hindenburg was practically reorganizing the western front army and giving the German soldiers intensive training for a great attack.

GERMANS LOSE IN NAVAL ENGAGEMENT

By Telegraph to The Freeman
London, March 21.—Following a ten-minute bombardment of Dunkirk, France, by German destroyers, a naval engagement was fought off the coast in which two German destroyers and two German torpedo boats are believed to have been sunk, the British admiralty announced today.

There were two British destroyers and three French destroyers in the squadron which attacked the German warships.

One British destroyer was struck and damaged, but was able to make port.

Sailors from one or more German destroyers were picked up in the waters.

Although the British had sunk none of the Allied destroyers was sunk.

There were a few British casualties, but the French did not sustain any at all.

The German destroyers took to flight after the bombardment of Dunkirk. They are believed to have come from Zeebruge.

The custom ticket as nominated was elected: President of the village, Frank J. Potter; trustees, George P. Andrews and Lester Palmer; police justice, Frank R. Cox; treasurer, Hubert Root; collector, Frank Ross; assessor, Milton N. Terwilliger. Out of the six resolutions voted upon, four were carried.

The Red Cross rooms are being given over entirely this week to the work of making a drive on the gauze compresses, and the ladies are responding in large numbers to the work, and there is every expectation that many more than the number of the first drive will be secured.

The Foreign Missionary Society of the M. E. Church will hold the March meeting at the parsonage Friday evening. At 5 o'clock a tea will be served to all members and new members; also the ladies of the Napanoch Church Society are to be entertained.

During the evening a very interesting program that has been arranged will be given. The ladies are expecting to add several names to the membership at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Cornelius are moving to an apartment in the same building where their son, Bert Cornelius, is running an up to date, first class restaurant and is having a large patronage of the home and out of town people.

It is understood that the Snart property on Center street will be occupied by a Hethrow physician and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Snart closed the household goods out at auction on Wednesday, and will soon go to reside at Middletown, N. Y.

Masonic Theater was crowded to its doors Tuesday afternoon and at both shows in the evening when the war pictures under the auspices of the Home Defense Committee were given. The musical program, as the pictures, was enjoyed. Between the reels there was a vocal quartet rendered by Mrs. John R. DeVany, Mrs. Fred Freer, Miss Bertha Edsell and Miss Pauline Taylor, with Miss DeVany at piano; a second quartet rendered by Mrs. DeVany, Mrs. W. S. Gaines, the Misses Taylor, and Mrs. G. F. Wilklow at piano. Another pleasing feature was the singing of several new war songs by a chorus composed by the drama players and several of the high school chorus of girls. It was altogether a very delightful evening's entertainment and much credit with thanks is due the Home Defense, of which Mr. Schultz is captain.

Chief Executives and the Press.—When John Adams became president, in 1797, he was often more severely attacked in the press than Washington had been. But his administration fought the attacks. Armed by the sedition law, which was passed the following year, it sought to annihilate the papers which it could not force to surrender. In the fight, which lasted four years, the people rallied to the support of the papers and defeated Adams in the election of 1800 by putting Thomas Jefferson in the presidential chair.

Good Cause.—"I hear that Dr. Smythe's efforts to trace his ancestors have been suspended."

"I suppose he found some of the ancestors were suspended, too."

"Keep Up the Good Work."

"When you get a sinner reformed," said Uncle Eben, "don't lose interest in him so quick but he feels lonesome and neglected."

STILL TIME TO FILE INCOME TAX RETURN

Deputy Internal Revenue Collectors Ward and LeFevre are still engaged in assisting people to make their income tax return properly. They will remain here until the end of March, and all returns must be filed with the internal revenue collector by April first or the person who should file a return and who fails to do so by that time will become liable to the penalty provided by law.

Both Messrs. Ward and LeFevre have visited the various villages throughout the county in order to assist people in those localities, and although there has been a constant demand on them and on Mr. Barrow, who was here before they were assigned to the county, apparently there are still many people who have not obtained blanks on which to make their return. This matter should not be neglected but should be attended to at once.

TWO ESTATES APPRAISED.

County Treasurer Files Report Under Taxable Transfer Act.

County Treasurer Schantz as appraiser under the taxable transfer act, has filed his report of appraisal of the estate of M. DeWitt Schennoes of New Paltz. The personal property amounts to $22,062.93; the real estate is valued at $10,000; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $1,338.11, leaving a net estate of $30,724.82, which goes to his brother, Charles C. Schennoes of New York city. The Poughkeepsie Trust Company, which is executor under the will, was represented by C. W. H. Arnold of Poughkeepsie; Andrew J. Cook appeared for the state comptroller.

County Treasurer Schantz also has filed his report of appraisal of the estate of Theodore D. Lewis of this city. The personal property amounts to $4,850; the real estate is valued at $2,000; the debts, commissions, expenses of administration, etc., amount to $600, leaving a net estate of $3,250. Elizabeth B. Lewis, the executrix, was represented by Daniel R. Deyo; Andrew J. Cook appeared for the state comptroller.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, March 21.—Preparations are being made for the social to be given in the church basement next Wednesday evening, March 27, and it is hoped that a large crowd will respond to the invitation to attend.

Mrs. Annie Adams left Esopus for New York city on Wednesday, where she will reside with her daughter, Mrs. Richard Draper. Mrs. Adams's friends will miss her, but they realize that their loss is her gain, and so wish her many years of enjoyment in her new home.

Gladys Lyons, the little daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Lyons, celebrated her tenth birthday on Tuesday of this week, by inviting her little playmates to her home for the afternoon. Those present were Helen Lund, Jennie Smith, Marguerite Mattoles, Florence Mott and Gladys Mott. Various games were played and delicious refreshments served and each little guest departed with a happy countenance, wishing Gladys many more such days.

Our up-to-date merchant, Hasbrouck Fraser, recently purchased a Graham delivery truck of 1½ tons capacity, from Perry Mott, and nearly every day is seen conveying large loads of feed and grain through the village, to his numerous patrons.

Birds are very much in evidence these pleasant days. In addition to the blue birds and robins, previously mentioned, there are large flocks of purple grackles, song sparrows, chickadees and this morning the writer was astonished to see about twenty cedar wax-wings in a tree near the house. This is an unusually early date for these birds in this vicinity, although they have no fixed time for migrating. They are so quiet that their presence might go unnoticed if one were not on the lookout for birds of all kinds, one who has never seen these crested beauties has missed a rare sight. It is said by one naturalist that they are so polite that they are often seen to pass a worm from one to another down a whole row of beaks and back again before it was finally eaten.

Miss Belle Davis of Kingston was a week and guest of her sister, Mrs. Elmer Lund.

FOR BETTER ROADS

IMPROVING THE BAD SPOTS

Certain Small Ruts That Are Usually Wet and Soft Determine Road Farmer Can Carry.

The worst holes in the road always determine the load the farmer can market. No stretch of roadway is uniformly good, because every road has certain small spots that are usually soft and wet. These spots cause more trouble than the rest of the road combined. How these spots are to be improved depends on the character of the soil, and the nature of the country. Many such spots owe their character to a soft subsoil, due to springs. Before these roads can be permanently improved they must be underdrained. If a tile is laid in these places there will usually be no trouble in the future. The surface of the road should then be filled with dirt and crowned, so any surface water may run off. If this is done there will be no trouble from subsurface water.

Many roadways that are closed in with shade trees are bad. If a goodly portion of the scrub timber along these roads be removed, the ground will dry out and no trouble result. If the character of the soil is soft and pliable, so that it will not pack and remain firm, new material should be applied to the surface. The best and cheapest material for improving roads is gravel. Where gravel beds are accessible a day's work with a team and wagon will improve any roadbed permanently. If the soil is very sandy an 8-inch application of clay to the surface will effect wonders. The road patrol should spend a considerable portion of its time in remedying the bad spots in the road.

ANSWER TO PRISON PROBLEM

New York and Other States Have Tried Experiment of Using Convicts to Improve Roads.

New York and many of the Southern and Western states have tried the experiment of using convicts to improve highways—and it has worked to perfection. The official organ of the New York state prisoners says that "no man of all the inmates who went outside last year had a word of fault to find with his treatment. All are anxious to join these camps again. The freedom of movement and the exercise shortens the time yet to do in a wonderful manner. Many states have found road work to be the answer to the prison problem. Colorado and California have rebuilt the better portion of their roads with prison labor, and besides feeding the inmates with an extra supply of food, it has also led to a lessening of time through provisions made by the farsighted legislators.

WIDE TIRES IMPROVE ROADS

They Have Same Effect on Country Highway as Roller on Field—Also Pull Easier.

Wide tires build up roads and save horse labor. They have the same effect upon a country road as a roller on a plowed field. On the other hand, the narrow tire cuts up a road like a disk. It has been found by actual test in this matter that the wide-tired wagon pulls easier in nearly all cases than the narrow-tired wagon. In deep mud on a country road the wide-tired wagons pull 62 per cent easier. On the country road with a thin surface of mud or deep dust, however, the narrow tires pull 4.9 per cent easier. In a cornfield the wide tires pull 30.5 per cent easier, in a dry alfalfa field 17.7 per cent easier, and on a dry country road 10.2 per cent easier.

Ontario Makes Good Roads. The Province of Ontario has approximately 55,000 miles of roads. More than 43,000 miles have been created and are in fairly good condition. About 20,000 miles are well graded earth roads; about 3,000 miles are surfaced with broken stone, and about 19,000 are surfaced with gravel.

All Roads Lead Home. All roads lead to home. You are not at fault if they are not all good roads, but you are to blame if it's not a good home.

Poor Too Artificial. In the same year as Lovelace, or just three centuries ago, was born Abraham Cowley, who published his first book of poems at the age of fifteen and to whom fell the posthumous honor of lending to Samuel Johnson's "Lives of the Poets." Johnson ranked him among those he called the "metaphysical" poets and expressed a dislike for his far-fetched conceits with which the present-day reader would heartily coincide.

ULSTER COUNTY FIRST TO "GO OVER THE TOP"

Nearly $1,700 Over Its Allotment—Best Campaign Organization in the Diocese
Mr. McCord Tells the Committee in New York.

The daily poll of the county in the Knights of Columbus drive, completed by District Director W. R. McCord early this afternoon, showed that Ulster county as well as Kingston city went "over the top" with last night's reports, the new total for city and county today being $42,176.92, or $1,500 in excess of the apportionment of $40,500.

"Ulster county is the first full district to go over its quota in the present campaign," said Mr. McCord, who returned this morning from a conference of the district directors held in New York last night. "The campaign management in New York would not believe me at first when I told them last evening that we would pass $40,000 by today. Kingston and Ulster county have the best balanced campaign organization of any single district participating in the present campaign."

Ulster county communities outside of Kingston reported $2,953 last night, making a total from the county outside the city of Kingston of $18,098.94. Among the larger reports last night were $1,300 additional from Gardiner, and $850 from Rosendale. The total for Rosendale is now $2,125, or $625 in excess of its allotment.

CAMP LIBRARIES HELP WIN THE WAR

"Camp library service has been established for just one purpose," said Burton E. Stevenson, at Camp Sherman recently, "that is to help win the war, and there are three ways in which it can help. First, by helping to maintain the morale of the men by providing them with interesting and entertaining reading matter to help tide over the moments of loneliness and depression which comes to everyone, second, by helping to educate them as to the causes and purposes of the war, and make them realize that they are not fighting France's fight, England's fight, Italy's fight, but America's fight—that it is not Belgium or France or England that Germany is seeking to destroy, but the ideals and principles which form the very foundation stones of this Republic; and third, by providing the men with special technical books along their several lines and so making them better and more efficient soldiers."

Good reading has helped to keep many a soldier up to his highest level; it has aided in the recovery of many a wounded man. It has helped to keep him cheerful, and to send back to him fighting time with renewed determination to win or die bravely in the attempt.

British soldiers returning home have said that but for the solace of reading, they would indeed have been badly off for recreation and amusement in the gloomy dugout, in the trenches, and the huts which afforded them some sort of shelter. There, often by the light of a candle stuck in a bottle, or upon a piece of wood with a nail driven through it, the war is happily driven from the mind by the "magic carpet" of some book of travel or romance.

How about the book that was given to you last Christmas? One way of keeping the spirit of Christmas in your heart is to pass on the book to some soldier. He needs it more than you do.

TEACHING WOMEN USE OF BALLOT

There was a goodly number of representative women at the chapel of the First Dutch church Tuesday evening, when the first session of the School of Instruction in the use of the ballot, under the supervision of the Federation of Women's Clubs was held. The first speaker of the evening was Alfred D. Van Buren whose conciseness, clarity and honesty made a profound impression on all present. Mr. Van Buren said he was not going to attempt to do what he had no right to do, tell anybody "how to vote," but he did hope to impress his hearers with the seriousness of their new privilege and responsibility in voting. He also indicated that the ballot was infinitely more than a "scrap of paper." The speaker considered it an important time for the women of the state to first exercise their privilege as voters, when there was so much that is rotten and tricky in our politics, and voiced the sentiment that it was a shame that our men had not to some extent at least, cleared up the politics of the state before this event. He told the women, that through their use of the ballot they would preserve their own standards in the community. First of all the women of our city as well as state must be made to realize their responsibility in this matter, whether it has been of their choosing or not. Mr. Van Buren then surprised many of his hearers by stating that there about 5,500 women in the city of Kingston; 2,500 more women than men. He asked his audience to think what could be accomplished with such a majority, and told them there was nothing they could not do politically if properly organized.

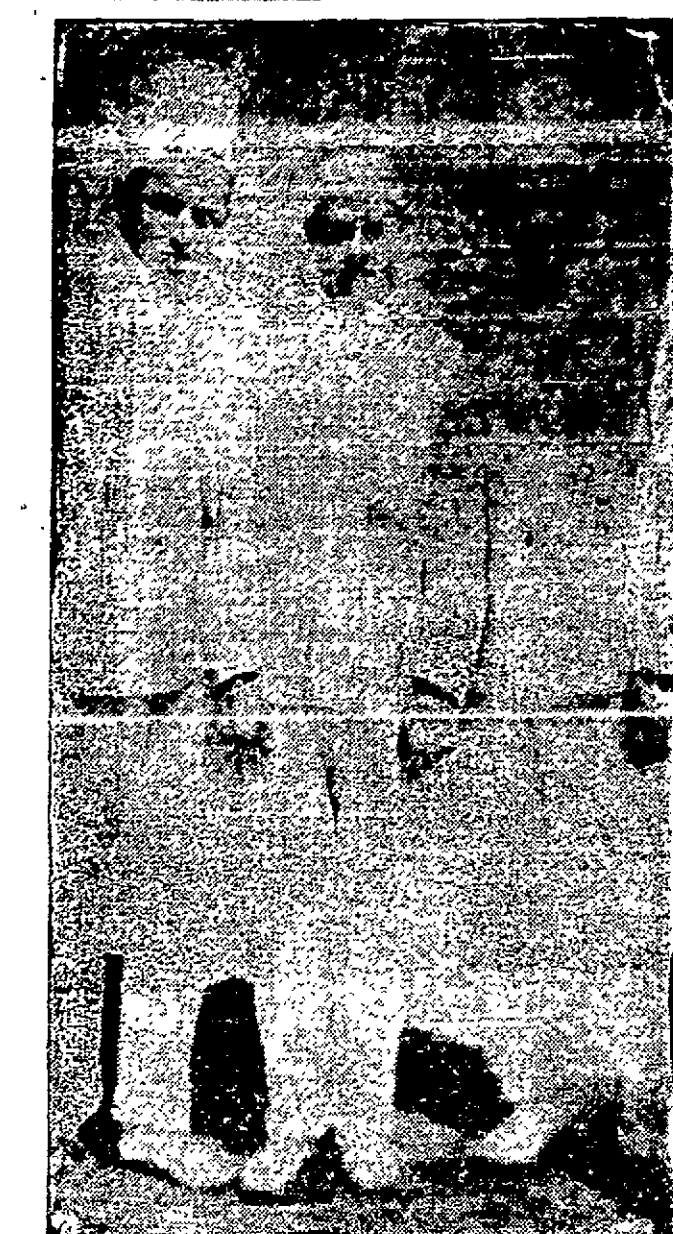

Then the speaker gave definite instructions as to registering, making it plain that every woman must register in order to be able to vote. He further called attention to the fact that with their first opportunity to vote would come the issue of a big moral question.

Having explained the matter of registering, Mr. Van Buren went into detail as to the actual voting on the election day, and his portrayal of what might be expected to be encountered at the polling places, was a word picture that would have done credit to Dickens.

Then the question of the coming special election was taken up, and the women were warned that they must register on April 5th, or 6th, if they wished to vote on this great moral issue of whether or not the city shall have liquor traffic. This election, it was pointed out, would not be for the choosing of officials but for the deciding of this great moral problem. Continuing, Mr. Van Buren showed the necessity of arousing the interest and conscience of all of the 5,500 women of our city in this matter of their responsibility as voters, and explained that this could be properly done only through an organization of the women of the community. After again urging, emphatically upon his hearers, the need of realizing their responsibility as voters, whether they would or not, Mr. Van Buren left the matter of organization to Mr. Thornberry who was the next speaker.

Mr. Thornberry made clear, what every Federation woman realized, that today no movement of any importance can be successfully carried through without organized effort. While each one of the 5,500 women of the city should express her individuality through her use of the ballot, to leave the matter open, without carefully seeing to it that every such woman was aroused to the importance of the matter, would avail little for the right as any might see it. In order to properly initiate the feminine vote in the city, it would be necessary to appoint a chairman; a secretary, and an executive committee, small enough to be widely and large enough to have the interests of the whole community at heart as the official board of the organization. This coming special election would be one of deepest concern to our women, and the speaker said that no time should be lost in the forming of the organization of the women of the city, that in the short time remaining before the two registration days, every woman in the city could be interested in the matter. It had been arranged that there would be held a second meeting similar to the one in progress, on Friday evening of this week at the Rondout Presbyterian church, for the special purpose of forming such an organization, and it was asked that representatives from Tuesday evening's audience be appointed to go to this second meeting.

On motion of Mrs. W. N. Fessenden, it was voted that the audience as a whole go to the Friday evening meeting at the Rondout Presbyterian church to help in the forming of such organization, and in the mean time, all women present Tuesday evening were urged to speak to as many other women about the matter as they could. The meeting then adjourned.

It would be a great accommodation to D. G. Atkins when the teachers make their report, to give the name of the school district and the number of pupils in each school. This would save a great deal of correspondence. Mr. Atkins would also consider it a favor if the teachers who reside in the city would call at his office Saturdays, so he could deliver the certificates, banners and buttons to them.

If any of the schools have photographs of the Juniors at work, the American Red Cross would appreciate receiving the same.

SOCKS ARE NEEDED BY THE SOLDIERS

To clear up the misunderstanding which seems to exist concerning the need for knitted socks among the men of our army and navy, Ethan Allen, manager of the Atlantic Division of the American Red Cross announced yesterday that there was not the slightest danger of an overproduction.

So many conflicting statements have come from sources outside the Red Cross to the effect that our soldiers were being supplied with socks which they would never be able to wear that Mr. Allen called attention to the fact that the life of a pair of socks in the trenches is about three days.

"There is little likelihood," said Mr. Allen, "that more socks will be knitted for the soldiers than will be needed by them."

Brontides.
Mystery still attaches to certain explosive sounds, heard in various parts of the world and known to science as "brontides." On the coast of Belgium these sounds seem to come from the sea, and are called locally "mispliffers." In the Ganges delta of India, similar sounds are called "Barisal rum." Brontides are well known in some parts of Italy, where they bear a great variety of names. In Haiti a sound of this character is known as the "couffre," while in parts of Australia it is called the "desert sound." Brontides mostly take the form of muffled detonations, of indefinite direction. Probably they are of subterranean origin. Studies of eccentricities in the transmission of sound through the atmosphere lead to the conclusion that some of the sounds hitherto reported as brontides were really due to cannonading or blasting.—Popular Science Monthly.

Good things come not out of bad things; wisely leave a longed-for ill.

Nectar being mixed with poison, serves no purpose but to kill.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE.

Simple foods, well cooked, are the order of the day. For an economical meatless dish try the following: Soak over night one pint of kidney beans, boil until tender. Fry three chopped onions in a table-spoonful of fat until brown, then add a can of tomatoes with a quarter of a pound of macaroni broken into bits. Simmer until the macaroni is tender; season well and serve.

Honey Cookies.—Heat a cupful of strained honey, add a cupful of sugar, three-quarters of a cupful of milk, a quarter of a cupful of shortening. After boiling, cool and add five and a half cupfuls of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of salt and three teaspoonfuls of baking powder; add to the first mixture with the yolks of three eggs well beaten. Add a cupful of chopped nut meats, a teaspoonful of almond extract. Roll thin, cut and bake in a hot oven.

Braised Chicken.—Melt a teaspoonful of butter or butter substitute in a kettle, and when hot put the chicken into the kettle, turning it until all sides are well browned. Add one onion and one carrot, finely chopped and fried in butter until brown, season well and add boiling water to half cover the chicken, then cover and cook slowly until tender. A half cupful of macaroni may be added to the broth and cooked with the chicken. When serving put the chicken on a hot platter with the macaroni around it, with the gravy poured over all.

Soy Bean Loaf.—Wash a pound of soy beans, cover with cold water and let soak 24 hours, then put on to cook with an onion stuck with two cloves, a little salt, bay leaf and a half teaspoonful of thyme tied in a muslin cloth. Cover and cook gently until the beans are tender. When cooked put them through a meat chopper, season with salt and pepper, a half cupful of tomato catsup and two canned pimientos, with the whites of two hard-cooked eggs, chopped fine. Form into a loaf, brush over with egg and roll in bread crumbs. Bake three-quarters of an hour in a moderate oven. Garnish with parsley when serving.
